BOARD SUGGESTS CHANGE IN PLAN

Township Trustees Receive Letters
Concerning Method of Giving Road Tax Receipts.

WOULD BENEFIT TAXPAYER

Communication Suggests That Receipt be Retained by Supervisor and Filed With Treasurer.

The township trustees of Jackson county have received a copy of a circular letter which is being sent out by the state examiner, W. A. Dehority. The communication advises a change in the manner of receipting work for road tax and will be of interest to every man in the county who pays road tax. The communication reads:

The Township Trustee—
plaints are filed in this department in regard to the way road receipts are handled. The law requires that when a taxpayer works his road tax the supervisor shall give a receipt for the same, which shall be presented to the county treasurer for credit. Several months elapses from the time the receipt is issued until it can be presented to the treasurer. The taxpayer may lose or destroy it, or when he makes payment of taxes he may forget to present the receipt. This causes annoyance to the taxpayer. If a receipt is lost or destroyed, the supervisor is asked to make a duplicate, which is an annoyance to him. If the taxpayer fails to present his receipt to the county treasurer in time for redemption, he will ask the trustee to redeem it which the trustee has no authority to do—and this will be an annoyance to him.

In order to avoid all of this trouble, we would suggest that you instruct each supervisor that when a person works out his road tax, he write a receipt but do not detach it from his receipt book, but keep it until he is through with his work, and that when he makes report to you, he file said receipts with the report. This gives you an opportunity to check receipts with report. When you make your report to the county auditor you should file all receipts with him and he will turn them over to the county treasurer. In this manner the receipts are not lost, the taxpayer is not bothered with preserving same until he can get credit, the supervisor is not annoyed with writing duplicate receipts, you are not annoyed with being asked to redeem receipts and the county treasurer has the receipts at the time he writes tax receipts, can give credit at that time and thus avoid handling the same during the rush of taxpaying time.

If a person insists upon having his receipt, the supervisor will have to give it to him; but if the matter is explained to him, we think, he would much prefer having the receipt given to the treasurer before he pays his taxes, thus avoiding the inconvenience of taking care of said receipt for many months before getting credit for same.

This is merely a suggestion and if you deem it better plan than the old way, this board has no objection to your adopting it.

Family Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cordes entertained with a family reception Wednesday evening at their home on east Second street in honor of their son, Walter Cordes and bride, who were married in Terre Haute several days ago. There were about sixty relatives present and the guests enjoyed a very delightful evening. Elegant refreshments were served. At the noon hour a dinner was served for the members of the immediate family. Mr. and Mrs. Cordes will reside in this city.

On Furlough.

Edward J. Kessler, who has been in the service of the United States army since 1908, is in Seymour on a ten days' furlough. He is now at Ft. Logan, H. Root, Ark., and has five more months to serve before his time expires. After he has served the time of his present enlistment he will not join the army again.

FORM FOR BIDS RECEIVED BY TOWNSHIP TRUSTEES

State Board of Accounts Specifies Manner in Which Contracts for Supplies Shall be Made.

The township trustees of this county have received from the State Board of Accounts a sample of a classified notice to bidders together with instructions regarding the receiving of bids and the letting of contracts for needed supplies. The sample form which will be used to give notice to bidders has been approved by the board who require that the provisions set forth shall be followed.

The form classifies the various supplies into twenty-two classes, each division including supplies of a similar nature. The trustees are also supplied with samples of the different supplies and the bidders are required to furnish the same quality in the supplies as the samples.

The trustees were informed several weeks ago that the new form would be sent to them and the board requested that all contracts for supplies be withheld until the new forms were received. The trustees are now instructed to make the contracts at once.

The state board of accounts adopted a ruling same time ago that when the contracts are made under the new form a copy of such contracts must be filed with the examiner.

DEATH STATISTICS

212 Violent Deaths in State During the Month of June.

Vital statistics compiled by the State Board of Health during June, which will be published in the July bulletin, show that during the month there were 212 violent deaths in Indiana. Of these two were murders, 28 suicides and 182 accidents. Those meeting violent deaths were: males, 156; females, 56. Of the suicides eight chose guns, seven carbolic acid, six hanging, two threw themselves under trains, two drowned, one took arsenic and one strychnine. Four died from taking morphine.

In the months of May and June there were 66 deaths from measles, this disease causing more deaths than scarlet fever and diphtheria combined. Scarlet fever deaths numbered 24 and deaths from diphtheria were 30.

CHARGES FRAUD IN LAND DEAL

TRADED FOR GENERAL STORE

Says the Latter Was Emptied of Stock and Demands $4,000—On Trial at Anderson.

A special from Anderson this morning says:

Mrs. Emma B. Harris got decidedly the worst of it when she traded a farm of 145 acres in Jackson county for a general store at Fishers Station, just north of Indianapolis, according to her testimony in the circuit court before Special Judge Van Osdoll. The case was venue from Hamilton county. Mrs. Harris says she agreed to trade her farm, subject to a mortgage of $3,600, for a general store owned by Reed Bros., but that when the invoice was made it was found that Mrs. Harris owed $1,300 difference, and it was agreed that the Reeds should keep possession of the store until they had sold $500 worth of goods. Mrs. Harris testified that the firm refuses to give up the store on the plea that it has not yet sold $500 worth of goods. She said that she knew of the defendants having sold thirty-five suits of clothing for $38 and she believes that they have sold many times the difference in merchandise at cut prices. She said that there is now nothing left in the store, and, as the defendants have her farm, she wants $4,000 damages.

The records show that Mrs. Emma B. Harris owned 125 acres in Grassy Fork township, but when the land was traded could not be ascertained.

CITY COURT.

Wife Files Affidavit Against Husband for Assault and Battery.

Two cases have been filed in the city court, one by Mrs. William Henderson against her husband, charging him with assault and battery, and the other against the woman for provoke, the affidavit in the latter case having been filed by Daniel Henderson, her brother-in-law.

It seems that Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson had been living in North Vernon for some time, but came here Wednesday evening. They became engaged in a word controversy, and the cases are the result. The trials were set for 3 o'clock this afternoon.

COUNTY IS FREE FROM BONDED INDEBTEDNESS

Treasurer Henry Price Redeems Last
Funding Bond for Five Thousand and Dollars.

Jackson county is free from bonded indebtedness, treasurer Henry Price having redeemed the last funding bond which was for the amount of $5,000.

The series of bonds, of which this is the last, was issued in order to raise money to repair the damage to roads and bridges caused by the McKinley flood, in 1897. In March of that year the heavy rains did thousands of dollars worth of damage to the public highways and washed out many of the smaller bridges and culverts.

THRESHING DELAYED.

Farmers Unable to Market Wheat on Account of Heavy Showers.

Millers in this city report that threshing is delayed and that it will be several days before the machines can start on account of the condition of the wheat, caused by the heavy rains. A small amount of wheat was threshed in this county Saturday afternoon and Monday morning, but none had come to the city since that time. The wheat in the shocks is still very damp and will not be in condition to thresh for several days, even if there is no more rain.

Much of the wheat is still standing in the fields, and it is feared that a large amount of the grain will be lost, as the binders cannot get into the fields.

CARPENTER FALLS.

Albert Bruengger Receives Painful Injuries in Accident.

Albert Bruengger, a carpenter, was injured Wednesday afternoon by falling through the joists at the residence which he was assisting in erecting on East Fourth street. His left wrist and knee were injured and it is with difficulty that he can walk. It is also feared that he is injured internally.

LOCAL MEN TO HELP IN STATE CAMPAIGN

County Chairman Masters Will Secure
Several Prominent Speakers for Addresses.

FOREMOST ORATORS FOR STATE

Republican State Speakers' Bureau
Expect to Have Large List of Strong Speakers

A number of local Republican politicians and attorneys are making arrangements to make many speeches this fall in the interests of the party. Some of their addresses will be given in Seymour and Jackson county, and they will also be asked to take part in the state campaign.

County Chairman W. P. Masters has been considering the matter of the out-of-state speakers for this county for some time, but as yet has no announcement to make regarding the orators. It is understood that several prominent speakers of wide reputation will be secured for several addresses, besides a number of speeches by Indiana politicians.

It is known that some of the foremost orators in the United States will be in Indiana this fall. Former President Roosevelt, of course, will prove one big attraction of the Republican speaking campaign. Senator Knute Nelson, of Minnesota, will be among the other men who will stump the state for Senator Beveridge, along with Albert B. Cummins and Senator Jonathan P. Dolliver, of Iowa.

Senator J. L. Bristow, of Kansas, is another strong speaker, who has offered to assist the Republicans in Indiana, and his offer probably will be accepted. Another speaker will be Senator William Alden Smith, of Michigan, one of the old guard in Republican politics. Senator Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, has tendered his services, along with Senator William Bradley, of Kentucky. Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, is another whose services are at the disposal of the state committee.

Many of the Republican orators in this state will take the stump, including former Representative John C. Chaney. Representatives Crumpacker and Barnard will speak, as will all other candidates for Congress.

One of the oratorical surprises promises to be Otis C. Gulley, of Danville, nominee for secretary of state, who is something of an orator himself. Finley P. Mount, nominee for attorney-general, of Crawfordville, is an orator of known ability and his services on the stump are expected to contribute not only toward the success of the state ticket, but to that of the legislative ticket.

James E. Watson, of Rushville, said he probably will spend most of his time speaking in Wisconsin and Oklahoma. According to word which has reached Indianapolis, Mr. Watson is to have as his guest shortly in Rushville Vice-President Sherman, with whom he expects to go over the political situation and with whom he expects to outline an extensive campaign. It is not likely that the Vice-President will speak in Indiana.

Former Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks may be invited to participate in the campaign if his health and business affairs will permit.

There are already many requests at state headquarters from county chairmen for speakers. Each county will furnish speakers and each county chairman will submit a list of men who will contribute their services. It is not likely that the Republicans will run any special trains over the state, as it has not been customary to do so in off-year campaigns.

ONE MAY SUE FOR DAMAGES

Ex-Trustees of Cass Say They Are Honest.

VEHEMENTLY DENY CHARGES

Without Exception the Nine Trustees in Cass County Deny the Charges Brought by Examiners of Indiana Board of Accounts—One of Them Says if Examiners Are Responsible Parties He Will Sue for Damages.

Logansport, Ind., July 14.—Without exception the ex-trustees charged in the report of State Accountants Swift and Connelly with owing the aggregate sum of $14,539.38, deny that they ever wrongfully obtained a penny of public money. O. P. Erbaugh of Tip-ton township, who is charged with owing about $550, in an interview said: "I know that I am not much of a book-keeper and I know that I am honest. If there is a shortage it is only an apparent one, and is due to my crude system of bookkeeping."

Herman E. Martin of Washington township, who is charged with approximate shortage of $3,500, says he could have explained to the complete satisfaction of the examiners had they called him before them. "But they did not do this," he said. "I never knew anything was wrong until the story came out in the local papers. I am innocent of any wrong, and what I want is a court investigation. Now as to this law; it's all right with two exceptions. A trustee should be called before the examiners and be given a chance to explain, and report of the examiners' findings should be filed in the county in which the latter work. Under the present system a man is branded as a criminal before he has a chance to say a word in his own defense."

J. W. Deniston of Adams township, who is charged with a shortage of about $1,000, intends to bring suit for damages against Swift and Connelly if they are worth any property. He says that their report regarding him is not true.

GRUESOME FIND

London Police Make Discovery Pointing to Murder of American Actress.

London, July 14.—Evidence points to the probability that the vaudeville actress, Belle Elmore, was murdered and secretly buried in her home, 39 Hilldrop Crescent, North London.

Miss Elmore was born in America. She married Dr. Crippin, also an American, with whom she lived at the above address. She was an official of the Music Hall Artists' guild, and regularly attended the office of that organization until last February, when she absented herself. Inquiries made concerning her called forth the information that she was ill and had gone to the continent to recuperate. Shortly afterward an announcement of her death was printed in theatrical papers.

Circumstances later awakened the suspicion of the police, and inquiries made at the town at which it was said she had died showed that she had not died there.

Subsequent investigations strengthened the suspicions of the police, who last night made a search of 39 Hilldrop Crescent, where Dr. Crippin lived since his wife's disappearance until two or three days ago. The police dug up the ground in the basement and found at a depth of some feet human remains, which were removed for an expert examination. Nothing further is known.

Oratory Promised.

Portland, Ind., July 14.—United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, his opponent for the senatorship, John W. Kern, and Congressman John A. M. Adair of this city are advertised as the chief speakers at the annual reunion of the old settlers of Jay and Randolph counties, to be held at Ridgeville on Aug. 3. In addition there will be the usual number of reminiscent talks by pioneers.

Strange Accident Proved Fatal.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., July 14.—Martin J. Smith, aged fifty-seven, a carriage builder, is dead at his home in Center street, from injuries received while attempting to open a door at his home. When it did not swing readily Smith jerked the door with such force that it struck him, knocking him to the floor. He received internal injuries which proved fatal.

Authorities Investigating.

Dublin, Ind., July 14.—Complaints are being made by the employees of the C. C. & L. (now the C. & O.) railroad, that negroes persist in shooting at trains as they pass between Economy and Losantville. As a result the authorities of this county are making an investigation.

Fraternal Officers Accused.

Rock Island, Ill., July 14.—The grand jury which has been investigating fraternal insurance affairs for six weeks, has reported, indicting thirteen men.

A $25,000 Blaze.

Monroe City, Ind., July 14.—Fire visited the business section of this place, and damaged property to the amount of $25,000.

MRS. HARTJE

She Has Finally Secured an Absolute Divorce.

Pittsburg, July 14.—Mrs. Mary Kenney Scott Hartje has been granted an absolute divorce from her husband, Augustus Hartje, and the famous case which has been dragging through the courts since 1907 has been settled. Mrs. Hartje will receive the income of $100,000 for life and after her death the sum will revert to her children. The father gets the boy Scott, fourteen years old, and the mother gets Mary, the ten-year-old daughter.

TAFT PUTS REPORTER ON HIS IN BAD LIST

Dunlap of the World Banished From Beverly.

Beverly, Mass., July 14.—Harry L. Dunlap, head of the Washington bureau of the New York World and its correspondent at the summer capital, has been excluded from the correspondents who are received by President Taft and Secretary Norton. Mr. Norton so informed Mr. Dunlap in a long letter.

The reason given is that the latter quoted President Taft directly in a story sent to the World from Beverly on Monday night. Mr. Norton says in his letter that once before Mr. Dunlap quoted Mr. Taft directly, despite a rule that the president shall not be so quoted. He says further that the quotation was inaccurate. Mr. Dunlap takes exception to the assertion that the quotation, which was used in a "box" at the beginning of a story which he wrote about the visit of Collector Loeb to Beverly, was inaccurate in substance.

There were seven or eight correspondents at the Taft cottage when the president made the utterance quoted. All of them agree that Mr. Dunlap's quotation was accurate in substance if not in verbiage.

BLAMES DISPATCHER

Superintendent of the C. H. & D. Locates Cause of Middletown Wreck.

Cincinnati, July 14.—Albert Smith, train dispatcher for the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad at Dayton, has been relieved of his position. He was dismissed, officials said, for his connection with the Middletown wreck, in which twenty-three people lost their lives, July 4. General Superintendent Gould said: "Smith blundered. That is all there is to it."

Chevy Chase Club Gossip.

Washington, July 14.—The interesting rumor is in circulation at the Chevy Chase club that Miss Katherine Elkins will become the bride of William F. Hitt, son of the late Robert R. Hitt, in the early days of the next social season. The story also is that the Duke of the Abruzzi will be a guest at the wedding.

FRECKLES.

The Events That Started a Poor Boy on His Career.

By IRA TEN BROECK.

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

A zephyr of wind caught up a sheet of paper from the editor's desk and sent it whirling out through the open window. What the editor said is superfluous.

Branton was just rising from his chair to recover the manuscript as a ragged urchin entered the door of the Pinetown Chronicle. When he caught sight of the boy he did what any mortal being possessed with an abiding sense of the ridiculous would have done—he fell back into his chair and laughed.

"Here's yer paper, mister," announced the 'boy by way of introduction. "I seen it blow out th' window an' fetched it in."

Chance sometimes plays strange tricks. Had anybody told Branton an hour earlier that a gust of wind would blow him fortune he would have laughed at the absurdity of the suggestion.

"Thank you, Freckles," he said. "Here, take this dime for your trouble." The freckled face of the boy broke into a smile as he pocketed the coin and turned to go. He paused at the door, and Branton, looking up from his writing a moment later, saw him standing irresolutely on the doorkill.

Kind hearted Jim Branton was quick to surmise that the lad had something more to say. "Anything I can do for you, son?" he asked kindly.

"N-no, I guess not," answered the boy. "Only I thought p'rhaps you could give me something to do. Y' see, mister, I don't know nobody here, an' I ain't got no place to go, an' if you could"—He stopped awkwardly and fumbled with his fingers.

A few hours later John Jupin, alias Freckles, late of the city of New York, was engaged in sorting the contents of one of those receptacles known in the parlance of the printing office as the helibox.

"I WANT YOU TO ACT AS REPORTER."

The months that followed were strenuous ones for the Chronicle. Pinetown was in the throes of a political battle over the purchase of a municipal waterworks system. From the first Branton stood firm for municipal ownership, and for a time everything seemed favorable, but then the tide turned.

The political party in the minority saw an opportunity to create a sentiment against the project and charged openly that it was a scheme for graft on the part of the party in office. Branton remained firm in his position.

Affairs were at this point when the leader of the opposition made Branton an offer to desert the now unpopular cause.

All this Freckles learned as he toiled over his types, and he gained a keen insight into the contest. At leisure moments he joined groups of politicians on the street and listened unobtrusively to the discussions. He gathered a fund of information.

The linotypes were merrily humming and clanking one evening a year after Freckles came to the office of the Chronicle. He had made remarkable progress in his work and through the kindness of Branton had attended the sessions of a night school. He bent all his energies to make the best of his opportunities, and at the end of the term he had graduated near the head of his class.

Freckles was perched upon a box setting headings from a case that was too high for him. He was wondering how much longer Branton could hold out, for it was an open secret that the Chronicle was near the end of its resources. Suddenly he read two lines that startled him:

HEAVIEST TAXPAYER RECONSIDERS ATTITUDE.

DONNELLY FAVORS PURCHASE OF WATERWORKS.

"Donnelly?" Where had he heard that name? Then like a flash he remembered—big Jim Donnelly, one of the leaders of the opposition, the man who had been foremost in denouncing the project. Donnelly reconsiders? Impossible! Only the day before Freckles remembered he had heard him say: "We have won, boys. The election next November is ours." There was treachery somewhere. He must see Branton.

Excitement prevailed in the editorial rooms of the Chronicle that evening. Branton was jubilant. With Donnelly in favor of the project, its success was assured. The news had startled him, indeed, but he cast all suspicions aside when his reporter came in from a personal interview with the leader. Now he saw the Chronicle restored in the good graces of the public and his sacrifices repaid. Freckles found him merrily typewriting an editorial.

"If you please, Mr. Branton, can I see you a minute?" he asked as the latter paused to make a correction.

Branton wheeled around. "Why, hello, Freckles," he said. "What's the matter? Going to give me notice that you've accepted a position as president of the bank?"

Freckles ignored his interrogation and delved at once into the object of his visit. "Mr. Branton, this head is wrong," he said. "There must be a mistake." Then he repeated what he had heard Donnelly say. Branton smiled amusedly.

"Freckles, you're wrong this time—dead wrong. That head describes with minute exactitude just what has occurred. We had it from Donnelly himself, through Billy Curtis." He turned to his desk. "It's all right. Don't worry."

Freckles was nonplused. He went slowly back to the composing room, thinking hard. What had made Donnelly change his mind so suddenly, or had he changed? It must all be a mistake. There must be treachery somewhere.

The next day there was great excitement in Pinetown. The office of Jim Donnelly was flooded with visitors, while the big boss passed around cigars to his anxious friends and explained that the esteemed Chronicle had had a "pipe dream." The prestige of that newspaper seemed forever lost—to all except Branton.

In the office of the Chronicle there was equal turmoil. Billy Curtis, the reporter responsible for the article that had set all Pinetown a-quiver with excitement, had resigned and was not to be found. Rumor said he had held an early conference with Donnelly before the presses of the Chronicle were through that morning and had left for the far west. Branton experienced a feeling nearer akin to disappointment than he had yet known. The treachery of Curtis was evident.

The needs of the present aroused him from his reverie. Some one must be found at once to take Curtis' place, some one he could trust. In his dilemma he thought of Freckles.

"I can trust him," he mused. "Anyhow, he can find out what is happening, and I can write the articles at present." So Freckles was roused out of his bed at 10 o'clock by a messenger and ordered to report at the office at once. He went in fear, dreading he knew not what. Branton was awaiting him.

"Freckles," said Branton, "I have made up my mind that we don't need you in the composing room any longer," and Freckles trembled. The next moment he could have shouted for joy. "I want you to act as reporter for me temporarily." Then he explained.

So Freckles went forth from the office an hour later with a jubilant heart notwithstanding the prospects of the Chronicle. Branton had unconsciously stumbled upon one of the secrets of success. He had made an ally of his helper.

He first went to the humble lunch room where he had taken his meals since his arrival in Pinetown. His head was literally awash with his sudden promotion. He bore in mind Branton's last words: "And, above all, Freckles, don't let anybody know who you are. Keep that low." In spite of his small stature, Freckles was now eighteen years old, and his sudden good fortune made him feel a man grown. His hard knocks in battling for an existence had taught him many things that were to stand him in good stead. Branton had chosen wisely.

Residents of Pinetown will always recall the events of the following day. The Chronicle was filled with remarks by eminent politicians never meant for publication, with here and there a caustic comment by Branton. The last number of the Chronicle was sold before the sun was two hours high, and Donnelly and his colleagues were raging. The strange part was nobody knew how Branton had secured his information. Nobody had seen him about, nor had any one observed the little figure that quietly lingered near groups of politicians as they conferred in low tones. Freckles went about without attracting suspicion, and the leaders began to whisper of treachery and of betrayed confidence. The next day and the next the Chronicle contained edifying news morsels and told of the growing spirit of disruption among the leaders. Donnelly grew alarmed as leading citizens began to sit up and take notice. The circulation of the Chronicle increased by leaps and bounds, Freckles was, indeed, "making good."

The tide of public opinion soon turned, and Freckles became established in the office of the Chronicle as head reporter, and Branton always said the change was brought about by a sheet of paper blowing from his desk one afternoon.

About a year after his promotion Reporter John Jupin made a trip to New York and after three days' absence returned with a careworn old lady, happiness beaming from her wrinkled face, and introduced her to Branton as "my mother." After that he bought a home in the suburbs, where, like they say in the fairy tales, they lived happily ever afterward.

An Expert's Opinion Of Skin Diseases.

A prominent national expert on skin diseases whose name you are familiar with says that in all his scientific experience he has never found so hard a disease to conquer as Eczema. Yet he does not hesitate to recommend ZEMO as a most successful remedy for the treatment of Eczema, itching skin diseases, dandruff, pimples, blackheads and all other diseases of the skin and scalp. He says that not only do its curative qualities make it popular but also the fact that it is a clean, liquid remedy for external use. A great improvement over the old style greasy salves and lotions which are not only unpleasant to use but do not destroy the germ life that causes the disease. ZEMO draws the germs to the surface and destroys them, leaving the skin clear and healthy. Can be used freely on infants. Mr. A. J. Pellens will gladly supply those who call with a free sample bottle of ZEMO and a booklet that explains in simple language all about skin diseases and how to cure yourself at home with ZEMO.

Double Your Business-- Let in the Sunlight

Suppose you knew a man who kept his shades drawn tight all day and burned kerosene instead of letting in the sunlight;

Suppose you knew a man toiling along a dusty road who would not accept a lift—when there was plenty of room in the wagon;

Suppose you knew a miller—with his mill built beside a swift-running stream—who insisted on turning the machinery by hand;

All foolish, you say? And yet look around you—how few retailers take advantage of the great advertising campaigns run by food, textile, cloth and every other manufacturing line that you can name!

Think a moment! What was the last advertisement you read and wondered just which store in town would be progressive enough to have the goods in stock so you could see them, and purchase?

More goods are sold under the evening lamp at home than you dream of. Practically every live retailer advertises in his local papers. But how?

Put up your lightning-rod! Let your customers know that you can deliver to them the goods which great advertising, paid for by manufacturers, has interested them in.

They will get the habit—and you will get the business.

Practically every manufacturer stands ready to help you help yourself. Ask them for electrotypes suitable to run in your own advertising. Hook their trademark to your store.

Consumer demand for advertised goods is now divided broadcast among all the stores in town.

Use your advertising in local papers to focus this demand upon your store.—And don't forget to send for those helpful electrotypes.

Read this again, for it means money to you.

Try a Want Ad in the Republican.

TIME TO LAUGH

When Mr. Kern Indulges Himself in His Brand of Humor.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis July 12.—John Worth Kern has spoken again. In a statement parboiled and basted by the Democratic publicity experts, Mr. Kern indulges in a small burst of wit. There is no denying it, Mr. Kern is witty. When he tells a humorous story it is time to laugh. When he vents his sarcasm or his spleen,—take your choice,—he generally says some real cutting things. But Mr. Kern's satire does not get him anywhere. He takes a fling or two at some worthy men who chose to quit the Democratic party several years ago. He rallies Senator Beveridge good naturedly on the optimism which pervades the Republican camp in Indiana. He declares that Col. Roosevelt will have a "respectful hearing" in Indiana, and speculates over the things the former president may say to Indiana voters. The most notable thing in Mr. Kern's interview is what he refuses to say. For there is not a word of prophesy in it. Mr. Kern refuses to predict what the outcome will be in Indiana this year. This is the first time in the memory of Indiana politicians that John Kern has failed to "pipe off" a Democratic triumph ahead of the balloting. If Mr. Kern is confident of Democratic victory he is holding his enthusiasm in masterly restraint. It is more than likely that Mr. Kern doesn't really know what is going to happen to him and his party this year. So there is something frank in his silence on this point.

The fact is, Indiana Democrats, individually and as a whole, are not nearly so cock-sure, politically, as they were a few weeks ago. We had a Democratic spring in Indiana. But summer is going Republican, and the November showing promises to be all that the most sanguine Indiana Republican could desire. Events have been moving swiftly in Indiana politics. Nothing has happened to strengthen Democrats. Many things have arisen to cause dissension and strife within the Democratic camp. On the other hand, as the campaign of 1910 has rounded to for the start, Indiana Republicans have been gratified beyond measure to find the workers united and enthusiastic, and the voters generally leaning the Republican way.

Assurances from the rural communities show that the farmers stand with the Republican party on national issues, and on state issues.

The factories and the industrial centers give out the word that workingmen, disgusted with the failure of the Democratic party to keep its 1908 pledges, are rallying to the Republican standard as never before.

The first voters and young men are marching in solid ranks in the columns led by Senator Beveridge and Theodore Roosevelt. The soldiers are supporting the Republican party, and have taken note of the pledge made in the Republican state platform in their behalf. The business men look to the Republican party, as in the past, for progressive and sane legislation on just and constitutional lines.

President Taft will speak in Indiana August 30. The president's appearance at Winona Lake will be an important occasion. It is expected that Indiana Republicans will be well represented at the Taft meeting, and that the president of all the people will be given a most hearty greeting and a most significant presentation to Indiana people. It is freely predicted that all talk of divergence among Republican party men will be effectually stopped after the Taft speech in Indiana.

Congressman W. O. Barnard, of the Sixth district, in Indianapolis yesterday, with District Chairman Elmer Bassett, declared that reports from all parts of the Sixth district, and from other parts of the state, indicate that the Republican party cause is gaining strength steadily, and that Republican workers are enthused and hard at work for the whole ticket.

J. Wood Wilson, of Marion, was a caller at Republican headquarters yesterday. Mr. Wilson is a manufacturer and banker, and works at Republican politics because he believes all citizens should do their part to uphold the political party which best serves the nation at large. Mr. Wilson was prominent in the Indiana campaign for Taft in 1908, and gained the praise of National Chairman Frank Hitchcock for his good work. Mr. Wilson declares that Republicans in the Eleventh are united for the Republican ticket, and that the prospects are better for Republican victory than they have been for many years.

It will interest Indiana voters, Democratic and Republican, to know that W. J. Bryan, of Nebraska, three times Democratic nominee for president, is likely to speak in Indiana on behalf of the temperance cause, in the crusade which is to be made to preserve existing liquor laws. Mr. Bryan has been urged to speak his mind on the liquor question in Indiana, and it is understood that he has the matter under consideration, and may speak at several places this fall under the auspices of the advocates of the laws as they now stand. It is the understanding that Mr. Bryan's speeches will be non-partisan, and that they will be directed to the discomfiture of Tom Taggart and his friend Crawford Fairbanks. Needless to say the coming of Mr. Bryan will not add to the good temper of Steve Fleming and Senator Shively, "Attorney for the brewers." Mr. Bryan already is booked for speeches at Indiana chautauquas. But his tour may be considerably enlarged.

THRILLED THE CROWD

Glenn H. Curtiss Took Long Chance at Atlantic City.

Atlantic City, July 11.—Despite the protest of Aero club officers who advised against a flight over the whitecaps too rough to even allow a lifeboat to stay off shore, Glenn Curtiss made an exhibition flight out to sea just before dark Sunday evening rather than disappoint the big crowd which had stood patiently along the boardwalk and on the beach for hours in the hope of getting a peep at an airship in action.

The flight lasted but five minutes, but was a lively exhibition of skillful flying, the squally southerly breeze tipping the plane dangerously as Curtiss described circles over the breakers. Walter Brookins, hero of Saturday's 6,000-foot flight into the air, breaking his Indianapolis record, made no attempt to go upward, instructions having been received by wire from the Wright brothers of their refusal to allow their machines to go up on Sunday.

THE ELKS INDORSE THAT CHARITY PLAN

Indiana B. P. O. E. to Act Role of Santa Claus.

South Bend, Ind., July 11.—Selecting Fort Wayne as the convention city for 1911 and electing an almost entirely new corps of officers, the ninth annual convention, B. P. O. Elks of Indiana, finished its business. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President Frank E. Bougher, Ft. Wayne; vice president, Alvin Padgett, Washington; secretary, Thomas G. Hedlan, Indianapolis; treasurer, Joseph H. Millsbaugh, Anderson; esquire, David Carlton, Elwood; inside guard, Charles Foresman, Muncie; trustees, A. A. Ross, Lafayette; George W. Zinky, South Bend.

The convention awarded the banner of the state association, offered annually in the ritualistic contest, to the Anderson lodge.

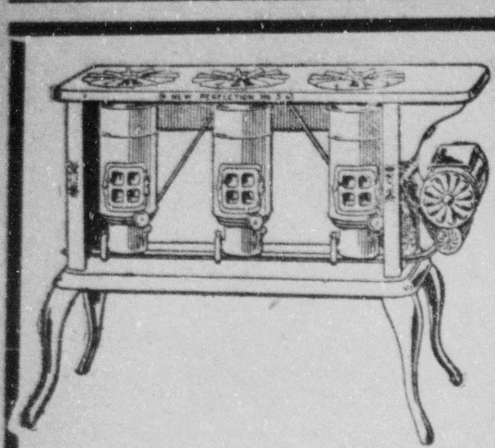

Action on the new charitable plan of the order, proposed by Frank E. Hering of South Bend, was taken. The association voted to recommend to the lodges of the state that all charitable endeavors take place at Christmas time, and that particular pains be taken to provide a happy Christmas for the needy poor pupils of the public schools. According to the resolution, the lodges will work in conjunction with the school authorities, presenting gifts and articles of clothing to all needy pupils whose names can be secured.

Pittsburg, July 11.—Lieutenant Shriver Stewart is dying at the South Side hospital, having been shot in the groin early Sunday morning while three men attempted to hold up a streetcar on the Mt. Washington branch at Shalerville. Lieutenant Stewart was on the car and, rushing to the conductor's aid, stood between the latter and one of the robbers, who fired pointblank at him. Stewart fired five shots at the fleeing thugs after being shot.

Now, that the county commissioners are intending to repair several bridges in the county, they might go a step further and give a little of their attention to the public roads. The surface, if there is any at all, on a large part of the highways which are most extensively traveled, has been in a most sorry condition for several years, and yet very little beneficial repairing or improvement has been made.

It is certainly due the traveling public to have good county roads, and that is one of the most important duties of the commissioners, which should not be overlooked. Now, that the county can boast of having no bonded indebtedness, it might be well to expend a small portion of the surplus revenue upon the highways, and such expenditure would meet with the favor of the public.

BUTTER CORNER.

Prices Will Probably Soar in the Future.

Whatever may be the trouble with the butter situation, which is characterized as "peculiar and perplexing," it seems pretty certain that we are going to pay more for our butter next year than we did last. At the rate it is now being stored it will come out of refrigeration next winter at a cost of 30.59 cents a pound to the holders. Before the consumer gets it, to this charge, profits of the holders, transportation costs, middleman's and retailer's profit.

Why the packers are having to pay 2½ cents a pound more for butter now than they did a year ago is not clear, for if one may judge by storage figures there is no scarcity of butter. The cold storage houses of New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia on the first of this month held 732,590 tubs of butter, as against 483,600 a year ago, or an increase of nearly 45 per cent. How much more is stored in other places is not definitely known, but it is estimated that there are 225,000 more tubs of butter in storage now than a year ago. Thus it is evident that the percentage of increase is much larger than that of increase in population.

But there is generally method in what appears to be commercial madness. The same men that are now extensively engaged in packing butter are also extensively engaged in packing oleomargarine. The higher the price of butter, the greater the demand will be for oleomargarine and incidentally, the higher will be its price. If these packers can practically secure control of next winter's butter supply, they will not only make a profit on their butter, but a still larger profit on their oleomargarine, thus catching both the extravagant people who insist on having butter at any price, and the more economical who will try to save by using oleomargarine.

ALL WORKING TOGETHER

Many Elements of Strength Rallying to the Republican Side.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, July 14.—In one point, that of labor co-operation, the Republican cause in Indiana is much better off than it was two years ago. There is much encouragement for Republicans in the attitude of the farmers and business men, and there is a lot of good cheer because of the eagerness among the first voters and younger men to get into the Republican line and work for the success of the ticket. The soldiers of all wars are largely with the Republican party. And in addition, the laboring men, whose leaders, in many cases, were working against the Republican party two years ago, are outspoken for the Republican ticket this year. There are good reasons for this condition. On the one hand is the failure of Democrats, when in power, to carry out lavish promises made to labor men. On the other hand is the fact that the Republican ticket in Indiana this year is acceptable to the workmen in all its parts, and the state platform pledges are such as appeal to all classes. Senator Beveridge is looked on as the good friend of laboring men, and his record of achievement, as well as his record of strong and vigorous crusading, includes a lot of legislation which is demanded in justice to the working men and women of the land.

There is no doubt that the passage of the postal savings bank bill, as pledged in the 1908 Republican platform, will work largely to the benefit of the Republican party among working people, who have long asked for such legislation. This idea is expressed in the Western Laborer, which says, in a strong editorial: "With all our heart we congratulate President Taft and the Republican administration on the passage of the postal savings bank law. We consider it the most needful and most beneficial legislation of our time. We don't care anything about the squabbling of the banks and politicians over the alleged 'dangerous faults' of this law. Now the poorest, most humble, most ignorant and superstitious human being in the country can bank his or her savings and rest assured in the thought that it is safe. That is a blessing. The United States, for the first time in its history, has a place for the poorer people to deposit their money where it will be absolutely safe. The Democratic party lined up against this law. This fact will harm that party immensely. Shame on the Democratic party. It can explain and explain and be damned. It cannot be trusted."

It is plain that the Indiana Democratic organization, in a vague way, realizes that the postal savings bank law is popular with the people, and that the people are ready to give the Republican party credit for passing that beneficial legislation. So an effort is to be made, through Tom Taggart's press bureau, to convince the people that the new postal savings bank law is the starter of a "central bank of issue" scheme hatched by the big interests. As a matter of fact, and as all the people know, the postal savings bank idea takes the place of the central bank scheme. The Democratic national platform of 1908 declared for a postal savings bank law on the plan which enters into the statute as it now stands. The Republican platform had a similar demand. The Republicans carried their pledge to fulfillment. The Democrats repudiated their pledge. That is the difference, in a nutshell.

The feeling against the Indiana congressional delegation of Democrats is especially strong because of their failure to line up in favor of the postal savings bank bill in its improved and approved form. But one of the eleven house members voted for the bill, and that one was Ralph Moss, the sole Democratic house member from Indiana who has escaped the sinister influence of Senator Shively and Senator Joe Bailey of Texas.

As will be remembered by those who followed the Washington dispatches, Joe Bailey and Shively were silent on the postal savings bank bill until after it had gone through a process of renovation and emasculation. There were some hidden jokers and stingers in the original bill, and while they were with it Bailey and Shively held their peace. The minute the jokers had been removed and the stingers pulled; the minute the measure took on presentable and decent form; the minute it became the people's bill, and framed to suit the people's needs, Joe Bailey came out in an interview attacking the bill bitterly. The minute the measure was so amended as to conform to the demands of the Democratic national platform and the desires of the people, Bailey denounced it and Senator Shively, as usual, uttered a "me too" and fell in at the side of Bailey.

From that time on these two valiant reactionaries worked hard to defeat the most popular legislation, and the most far-reaching legislative blessing of the century. It is not a pretty record to look at. It is not a pleasant matter for Democrats to think about. But it is true, nevertheless, that while some worthy Democrats voted and worked for the postal savings bank bill in accord with their platform pledges, the Indiana crowd, with a single exception, worked against the bill. What will Congressman Moss say when his Democratic colleagues attack the law he voted for? What will the people say when Democrats of Indiana assail the postal savings bank law?

CONSERVATIONISTS FACING A BIG ROW

A Chance That St. Paul May Reject Meeting.

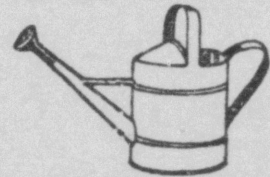

Chicago, July 14.—A merry row has been started over the conservation congress scheduled to meet in St. Paul on Sept. 6, and the Minnesota city may withdraw its invitation to Gifford Pinchot and his followers. This situation has been presented by the action of Mr. Pinchot and his associates in making up a program of speeches for the congress which the local managers believe will stir up trouble and possibly react on the Republican party in the state primaries to be held in September.

Governor Eberhart and other Republicans in Minnesota are all "het up" over the prospect. A few weeks ago they were tickled over having landed the big congress, but now they are going around under the impression that they have a good big "white elephant" on their hands. Colonel Roosevelt is one of the speakers that Mr. Pinchot has on his list. The local St. Paul managers of the congress have given notice that they will not stand for an all-insurgent program, such as they declare has been prepared by Pinchot. The controversy is being threshed out at a conference being held here today. Mr. Pinchot was joined here by B. N. Baker, president of the congress; J. B. White, another officer of the congress, and Thomas B. Shipp, secretary of the national conservation association, who has taken an active part in making preparations for the St. Paul affair. The conservationists were met here by Governor Eberhart and other anxious Republicans from Minnesota. If the conservation officials stand pat on the insurgent program, the congress will not be held in St. Paul. Minnesota Republicans are anxious to have the congress held in St. Paul, but they are ready to protest with great heat against the presentation of speakers who they believe may stir up controversies that would in all probability be ventilated in the September primaries.

WHAT TO WRITE IS THE PUZZLE

Democrats Open Publicity Bureau to Keep Party Secrets.

DON'T DARE DISCUSS ISSUES

Writers For Democratic Press at Loss For Texts—Liquor Issue Live Wire, and Tariff Presents Knotty Points—Advisory Board Wrestles With Problem Without Success—Taggart Controls Bureau but Can't Furnish Safe Dope.

[Indianapolis Correspondence.]

The Democratic state central committee has chosen its publicity bureau superintendent in the person of Guernsey Van Riper, recently city editor of the Indianapolis Star. It is understood Mr. Van Riper is to be paid $60 per week during the campaign. He is to be "advised" in matters of policy by State Chairman Stokes Jackson, Sam Ralston, of Lebanon, George Beebe of Anderson, and Ed. G. Hoffman, of Fort Wayne. Mr. Hoffman will represent Steve Fleming and the Tom Marshall interests. He will be tremendously in the minority. All the other men who are to "advise" the publicity bureau, are strong Taggart followers.

The funds for conducting the publicity bureau are to be provided by Tom Taggart, Joe Fanning, Gus Belmont and the others, from sources such as fed the Democratic party cause in the days of A. B. Parker. This is the cheering word sent forth by the Taggart workers, and it is probably true, in some degree.

It will take some time for Superintendent Van Riper and his helpers to square away and get down to work. The advisory committee has the publicity bureau on its hands and ready for work. But the advisory committee of Democrats does not know what to say to Indiana voters on the vital issues.

It is significant of the sure grip Tom Taggart keeps on the Democratic editors that the editors, though met at French Lick to organize their press bureau, left the matter over to be done at a Denison hotel secret caucus, under guidance of Taggart, himself, and according to his own plans.

It is known that the conference discussed ways and means of presenting the issues of the day to the people, and it is known further that the advisers to the publicity bureau adjourned without reaching any sort of conclusion as to methods or arguments. Especially was the meeting topsy-turvy on the liquor question. Sam Ralston, of Lebanon, being called on the carpet for permitting Boone county Democrats to pass resolutions repudiating the Democratic state platform, was forced to acknowledge that he was utterly powerless to block local sentiment as to existing temperance law. Stokes Jackson was free to admit that he had been unable to rally Hancock county Democrats for the state platform.

How to stand on the Taggartized state platform, and from that position appeal with any hope of success to the rank and file of Democrats, is the big puzzle confronting the Democratic publicity bureau.

It has been found that it will be disastrous to attack existing liquor laws. The tariff question presents serious difficulties to Democrats this year. They talk of the high cost of living, but they do not dare to go to the Indiana farmer with arguments against good prices for products of the farm.

The state platform straddled the issue of protection, and campaign demands for a "tariff for revenue only" will be quickly met by the words of the Democratic platform, which call for a "tariff for public purposes," which is an entirely different thing.

The bureau cannot whoop things up for Tom Marshall, for that might injure Harmon and enlarge the Marshall presidential boomlet. So there you are. Pending a decision as to campaign policy, it may be expected that the Marshall administration will be "played up" more or less for awhile.

REMEMBERS BENEFACTOR.

George W. Duncan, just named to be postmaster at Greenfield, twenty-five years ago appointed W. O. Barnard deputy prosecutor for Henry county. Mr. Duncan then was prosecutor for Hancock and Henry. He gave Mr. Barnard a start. Now Mr. Barnard, risen to be a member of congress, appoints his old time friend and helper to a postoffice. There is something pleasing and commendable in this sort of remembrance.

HOOSIER PROMOTED.

Charles F. Jones, of Brooksville, Ind., has been appointed to a place as solicitor in the department of justice at Washington, D. C. Mr. Jones has been representing the United States before the Spanish Treaty Claims commission, and there saved the government some $63,000,000. Which is a record worth considering, especially when made by a Hoosier Republican.

Hoosier Goes to Washington Ernest Elkin of Bowling Green, Ind., has gone to Washington to take a place in the census department.

Secretary In Bad With Germany, England and Mexico.

Washington, July 12.—International phases of the present difficulty between the United States and Nicaragua are causing considerable concern to the officers of the state department. Germany has recently taken an unusual interest in the political condition of Nicaragua and has within the last few days ordered a German cruiser from Callao, Peru, to the west coast of Nicaragua to protect German interests. This action is accepted by members of the diplomatic corps here as indicating that the German foreign office is not pleased with the manner in which Secretary Knox is handling the situation. Heretofore Germany has allowed the American naval vessels on duty in Central American waters to protect its interests. The sending of the German gunboat to the west coast of Nicaragua is accepted here as evidence that the German government intends to take a more active interest in Nicaraguan affairs within the next few months, and will protect its own interests as it sees fit.

Great Britain also, it was said, is not in sympathy with the present attitude of this government toward Nicaragua. Several weeks ago the British foreign office informed the state department that it had received many complaints from British merchants in Central America against the continued interruptions to business on account of the pending revolution in Nicaragua. In diplomatic circles this information from the British government is a symptom of dissatisfaction with our policy and is a hint that some action should be taken to remedy conditions there. According to well-informed members of the diplomatic corps, the effect of the imbroglio upon the diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico also has been most unfortunate.

HILARITY.

AND now the month of June is here, And we may dance and sing, In ecstasy stand on our ear And shout goodbye to spring,

The month of mating and of moths, Of rareness all around, Of broken hearts and plighted troths, When joy sells by the pound;

Month of mosquitoes and of brides And grooms, too, if you please, Of mild and mellow moonlit rides, Of green and tender peas;

Month when the graduate intense Draws knowledge from its fount And makes you look like thirty cents Or half of that amount.

In woods belated blossoms laugh, The air is fine as silk, And in the lot the spotted calf Is bawling for its milk.

All nature seems to be in tune, The baby grand is not, It hawks a message to the moon As thicker grows the plot.

O June, I like your winning ways, Your gaudy three ring show! How can I grandly sing your praise? You've laid the coal man low.

And with the charms that you display You almost turn my head, I take her by the hand and say, "Oh, Birdie, come; let's wed!"

HELEN GOULD

Into Whose Good Hands Brother's Children Have Fallen.

THE GOULD CHILDREN

Pending Settlement of Parents' Squabble They Are in Good Hands.

New York, July 13.—Mrs. Helen Kelly Gould, divorced wife of Frank Gould, and Ralph Hill Thomas, who were married on Monday, have sailed for Europe. They talked to the reporters just before the ship drew out of dock. Mrs. Thomas said that as Frank Gould had married in Paris before she did here, their children belonged to her. The children, she said, were at Helen Gould's home at Irvington, where they will stay until her return from Europe two months from now. "When we return," she said, "we are going to live at Sand's Point, where the children also will live. They belong to me now, and Helen Gould or Frank Gould have no legal right to them."

EDITORIAL WORK WAS INTERRUPTED

The Colonel Given Little Time for Desk Work.

New York, July 13.—Colonel Roosevelt put in the busiest day at the Outlook office yesterday that he has spent since he became contributing editor. From 9 o'clock in the morning, when he hopped out of the motor car that whizzed him down from Sagamore Hill, until late in the afternoon, he received persons of every sort. He listened to politicians, he talked conservation with others, and he did very little editorial work. He did not have time.

The list of visitors was a long one. Among these was Congressman W. S. Bennett, who announced to the newspaper men that he is a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination in this state. Gifford Pinchot, the deposed chief forester, emerged from the contributing editor's sanctum stating that he would leave for California today to take the stump for Hiram Johnson, an insurgent leader in the west, who is seeking the nomination for governor of California. Speaker James W. Wadsworth, jr., discussed the state situation and the matter of direct primaries with Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Bennett told the reporters that he is not in the modest class with Loeb, who has not said whether he will or will not be a candidate for governor. Bennett said that he personally is in the field and he is not ashamed to admit it. He intimated that he would like to receive the O. K. from Roosevelt.

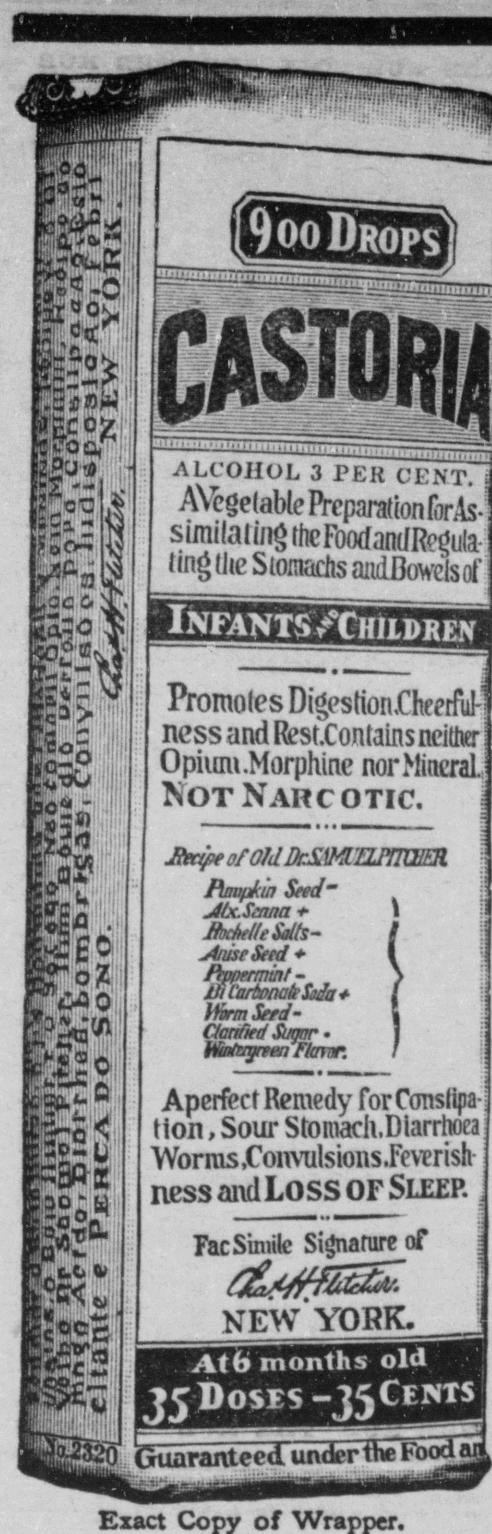

If one might be permitted to judge anything from the congressman's attitude and the negative way in which he answered pointed questions upon his leaving the colonel, one might say that Roosevelt did or said nothing to encourage Bennett. Speaker Wadsworth told the reporters that he knew absolutely nothing about Collector Loeb and that he himself is not in line and had never considered himself as a candidate.

The Gaekwar of Baroda, his noble son, who is a junior at Harvard, and a royal aide-de-camp, lunched with the colonel, who left for Sagamore Hill in his auto late in the day.

THE MAIN ISSUE

What? Why, the Tariff, According to Burgess Point Gossip.

Beverly, Mass., July 13.—Senator Winthrop Murray Crane of Massachusetts was a guest at the Burgess Point summer White House. He stopped for lunch with the president. It was admitted that Senator Crane and the president talked some about the political situation, but no definite plans were made. The outlines of the coming campaign are pretty clear already, it was stated. The tariff is to be the main issue, according to expectations, with plenty of subordinate worries to keep the Republican congressional campaign committee on the jump all fall. Senator Crane is of the opinion that there is an upward tendency in business that will argue well for the dominant party and may be looked for to offset Democratic oratory as to the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

GAEKWAR ARRESTED

Ruler of Baroda Encounters a Touch of American Law.

New York, July 11.—For the first time in his life Maharaja Gaekwar of Baroda was under arrest Sunday afternoon. The offense with which the absolute ruler of 2,000,000 Indian subjects was charged was that he had been accessory before the fact to excess auto speeding through the streets of New Rochelle. It may be added that the Maharaja was in the hands of the law no longer than five minutes. It was Prof. Bumpus of the Museum of Natural History who came to the rescue of the East Indian visitor. The halting of the royal auto took place only a few blocks from the Bumpus home and a neighbor carried word to the professor, who lost no time in telling the policeman there might be "international complications" if the Gaekwar of Baroda were to be subjected to the ignominy of being taken to the police station. Prof. Bumpus thereupon formally introduced the policeman to the ruler. The long list of titles and dignities fairly staggered the bluecoat. He saluted the Gaekwar and the incident was closed.

In Bad Fix

"I had a mishap at the age of 41, which left me in bad fix," writes Mrs. Georgia Usher, of Conyers, Ga. "I was unconscious for three days, and after that I would have fainting spells, dizziness, nervousness, sick headache, heart palpitation and many strange feelings. CULTIVATION OF THE PLUM.

Spring the Best Time For Planting This Variety of Fruit Tree.

Discussing the cultivation and propagation of the plum, a bulletin of the Iowa State college says:

The plum may be propagated either by budding or by root grafting. In general practice the former is the more successful, the work being done at the close of the active growing period, which is usually the fore part of August. In top grafting the plum it is important that the stock and the scion belong to the same or a closely related species. If this is not the case the union is apt to be unsatisfactory and the tree becomes poorly developed and is short lived. For the American varieties stocks of the native species should be used. Miner is highly recommended as a stock for the Americana plums by some of our Iowa growers.

Under average conditions spring is the best time for planting plum trees. In exceptional seasons, with a favorable moisture supply, fall planting may be done with success, provided the work is done early, so that the trees may become re-established before winter sets in. Often, however, the moisture supply in the fall is an uncertain quantity, and if the ground is at all dry the tree which has been recently disturbed is likely to suffer severely during the winter.

The distance apart to plant depends somewhat on the variety and also on the type of soil. Generally eighteen to twenty feet apart gives ample room.

As fruited at this station and elsewhere in Iowa the plum shown in the cut, the Golden, is an attractive golden yellow plum, rather large for its class. It is one of the few varieties having Japanese blood which appear to be well enough adapted to Iowa conditions to merit further testing. The tree is vigorous, comparatively hardy and rather productive. The fruit is sometimes badly injured by fruit rot.

Farmers Buying Autos, Not Bonds.

Wall street has been watching with growing envy the success of the automobile makers in disposing of their wares to the farmers. For the moment, at least, securities are out of favor, although, if the figures just made public by the department of agriculture regarding the growing purchasing power of the farmer may be taken as a criterion, after each farmer has his stable of motors there ought to be something left over to squander on stocks and bonds. According to the statisticians of the department, the growth in average farm value per acre for each crop covered is as follows:

	Per Cent	1910.	1909.	Inc.	Dif.
Wheat	$15.62	$7.61	$8.01	105.25
Corn	15.20	9.02	6.18	67.4
Oats	12.29	7.63	4.66	61.07
Hay	15.07	11.39	3.68	25.2

Corn in Mexico.

The corn crop is an important factor in Mexican agriculture. Much of the land is farmed by renters. In Durango, for instance, the renter signs a contract to give the landowner one-half the crop clear of all expenses. The corn is husked by men who get 50 cents each in Mexican money per day. By the time all expenses are paid the renter has little more than enough corn to last him until spring. Then he is compelled to buy of the landowner at an advance of 40 to 60 per cent over prices he receives for his crop of the fall. Prices in Mexico are around 60 cents a bushel in the fall and 90 cents in the spring.

Horse Manure Best, Cow's Worst.
It may be desirable to know the why of the individual richness of the manures from farm animals. The horse is at the top on this account. That of the hog comes next, then that from the ox. The manure from the cow is at the bottom of the list, this being due to the enriching substances in her food going to the formation of milk, leaving the manure comparatively weakened.—Home and Farm.

Right Way to Grow Sweet Corn.
Shallow cultivation of sweet corn should be practiced to preserve the moisture of the soil, since this crop requires a large amount of water in its growth and is likely to suffer from

MILLET AS A CATCH CROP.

Useful to Follow Another or Replace One That Has Been Destroyed.

When a catch crop becomes necessary one of the first that is thought of is millet. This crop does not have a high feeding value, as it is apparently too rich in oil. At the same time it is very useful to follow another crop or as a catch crop to replace one that has been destroyed. It matures quickly and, in combination with other feeds, has an undoubted value.

There are many varieties, and in general these varieties constitute one of the most important groups of food plants, as they are the staple diet of about one-third of the world's human population. In the old world they are grown as cereals, but in America almost entirely as forage. The true millet is sometimes called the broom corn millet. Another variety is the fox tail millet, and still others are the barnyard or Japanese, the African, the Chinese, the Indian and pearl or cat tail millet. The fox tail variety includes the German and Hungarian millets, which are most commonly grown in this state.

For several years past there seems to have been a considerable increase in interest in millet as a pasture crop in western Kansas. When sown for such a purpose about twice the usual amount of seed should be used. As it is a heavy feeder and draws upon the nitrogen element of the soil it is said to be hard on land. Those soils which are best adapted for its growth are rich in humus. Swamp lands or slough lands and muck soils which can be drained so as not to be too wet are best for this crop, though it may be successfully grown on clay soils which do not get too dry.

Clay soils are not good for millet because they lack in humus. The seed must not be sown before the ground has become warm, as they will either fail to germinate or will remain in the ground so long that the weeds get too great a start. If the land is rather thin more seed should be sown. It can be either broadcasted or drilled, but in rich land a smaller quantity of seed may be used, as the plants will till better.—Kansas Farmer.

OUR BEST APPLE TREE.

The Frazer of the Walla Walla Valley, Wash., Is the World's Champion.

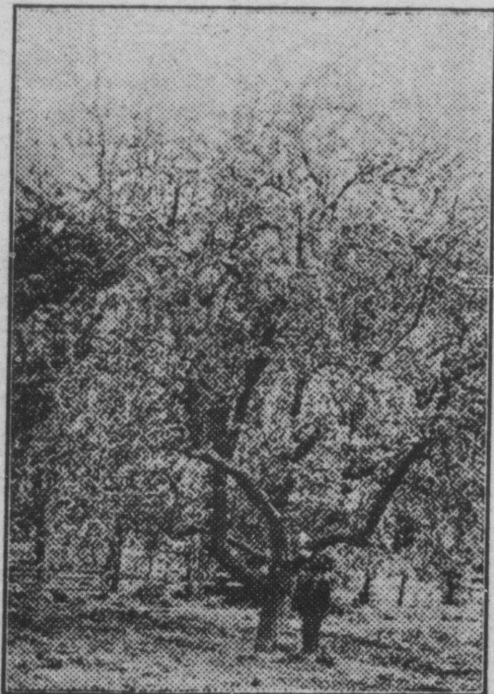

Experienced growers predict that the Frazer apple tree, growing in the Walla Walla valley, near Walla Walla, Wash., southwest of Spokane, will yield between 150 and 200 bushels of fruit this year, thus breaking its record of 126½ boxes in 1907, the highest production from a single tree known anywhere in the world. The tree bore seventy boxes in 1906, forty-two boxes in 1908 and forty-five boxes in 1909. More than 500 barrels of fruit have been picked from its limbs since it came into bearing in the spring of 1871.

The tree was grown without irrigation from a seedling planted by Capt. R. Frazer in 1866, two years after he settled in the valley. It is forty-two feet in height, and its branches spread fifty-seven feet from tip to tip.

The trunk is seven feet in circumference at the base and measures six feet six inches just below the first limb, which is four feet from the ground and measures four feet seven inches. The tree is sound and healthy despite the fact that it has produced fruit every season for nearly forty years.

Professor W. S. Thornber, horticulturist of the Washington State college; J. A. Balmer, former state horticultural commissioner of Washington, and R. A. Jones, a practical orchardist of Spokane county, described the tree as follows:

"The fruit is medium to large, roundish, oblate, irregular and slightly ribbed. The cavity is deep, broad, russeted and slightly wavy. The stem is short and heavy. The basin is narrow, abrupt, deep and wavy. The calyx is half open to closed.

"The color is yellowish green, faintly mottled with reddish purple in sunny side. Dots are large, irregular green and russeted. The flesh is yellowish white, mellow, juicy, coarse grained, of a mild subacid to sweet flavor and of fair quality.

"The cup is conical, stamens medium, core large, closed seeds, few dark brown and plump. The season is early to medium winter."

Mistakes With the Potato.

One reason why potatoes have degenerated in the past is that the potato growers of the United States have planted their culls and screenings under the erroneous impression that such methods in seed selection would produce as good results as any other.—Farm Progress.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL SCANDAL GROWING

More Former Officials To Be Drawn Into Graft Net.

Chicago, July 13.—Following a long conference held between President J. T. Harahan of the Illinois Central road, who has just returned from Europe, Special Attorney Rayelson, Vice President W. L. Park and Blewett Lee, the rumor spread that more former officials of the Illinois Central are soon to be drawn into the graft net.

Although none of the officers of the company would admit the truth of the rumor, neither would they deny that the names of other men who were recently prominently connected with the company would soon be parties to the bill for accounting.

It is understood that one of the officers who is making the investigation declared that not half of the story had yet been made public, and declared that disclosures would soon be made in the case. It is known that the investigation has proceeded ever since it was begun and did not stop, as commonly supposed, with the filing of bills against the companies and individuals thus far brought into the case. Should the rumor prove true it will account for the "cleaning out" that has occurred in the operating department of the road. More than a dozen officials have been discharged from the service recently without a word of explanation.
